

CEER 2014 FIELD TRIP: Lafitte Swamp Tour

Want to experience Louisiana's unique swamp environment without getting your feet wet? Then this is the field trip for you. You'll be up close and personal with the flora and fauna of the Barataria Preserve of the Jean Lafitte National Historical Park and Preserve directly south of New Orleans—and yes, this is where the famed buccaneer Jean Lafitte headquartered some of his most nefarious enterprises. You'll get a guided tour over boardwalk and dirt trails that wind through the preserve and get a taste of Louisiana's wild wetlands with 20,000 acres of bayous, swamps, marshes, forests, alligators, and more than 300 species of birds.
